EXCELLENT COURSE TO BE PRESENTED

The sale of season seats for the Normal Concert course will open at the Conservatory on next Tuesday at 4 o'clock for all seats located in the south half of Normal Hall and on Wednesday at Spalsbury's drug store at 4 o'clock for all seats in the north half of the hall. The general sale to students only will follow on Thursday at 4 o'clock in the Conservatory building. Professor Frederick Alexander has been very fortunate this year in engaging the entire New York Symphony Orchestra for a matinee concert. Mr. Walter Damrosch will conduct and fifty celebrated musicians will be at their desks, the orchestra filling the entire stage in Normal Hall and the seats customarily occupied by the chorus. Only twelve cities are visited outside of New York by this famous organization and our nearness to Detroit places us fortunately enroute. The orchestra ranks among the few great orchestras of the world. The course opens with a song recital by Mme. Gertrude Rennyson whose beautiful singing in the Savage Opera Co. will be remembered in America and whose European reputation since has gained for her fresh laurels in Brussels and Paris and more recently at the famous Richard Wagner theatre in Bayreuth in Bavaria where at Mme. Wagner's request she sang this season the role of Elsa in "Lohengrin." Mme. Rennyson is the only American soprano, after Lillian Nordica, who has had this distinction. The Christmas Carols which were so exquisite last year will be again the feature of the December concert, many rare old compositions having been selected from this superb literature. The Detroit String quartet with Mme. Elsa Ruegger, violoncella soloist; a piano recital by Harold Bouer, who is recognized as one of the greatest masters of the day; a unique concert by the Longy Club—the wood-wind instruments from the Boston Symphony orchestra; the Spring Festival by Normal Choir and the Spring Singing Club with soloists not yet announced. These form the wonderful series of attractions offered to patrons of the course. Professor Alexander is ambitious to establish in Ypsilanti a really superb series of concerts. The present course represents his ideals for the Normal and for the citizens and is his pledge to the community to maintain here a standard in which students and citizens shall find great pleasure and profit—a course that shall be to us a means of culture and a just source of pride.

FOUND GUILTY OF MURDER

Harrisville, Mich., Oct. 2.—Fred Miller, the Mud Lake farmer, was found guilty of murder in the first degree for the killing of Mrs. Lesher, a neighbor. The jury deliberated two hours before arriving at the verdict. Miller showed no emotion and was taken to the Alpena jail.

The tragedy resulted from a quarrel over some cows. It was claimed Mrs. Lesher was clubbing the cows when Mrs. Miller interfered. In the trial the latter testified that Mrs. Lesher attacked her with a pitchfork and that Lizzie Miller, her daughter, struck Mrs. Lesher with a club, the blow resulting in the death of the latter. The evidence of the prosecution, however, was that Miller came upon the scene and struck the blow that killed Mrs. Lesher.

CHILD DRINKS FLY POISON, MAY DIE—OTHER ACCIDENTS

The two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Markham is lying seriously ill at the home of his parents in Superior as a result of drinking fly poison.

The little child was taken violently ill Sunday evening about 6 o'clock. A physician was summoned and it was found that he had gotten hold of some fly poison which contained arsenic. When questioned the child said he was thirsty and he drank the water and it was sweet.

Mrs. Linus Hiscock met with a severe accident while attempting to pick some fruit Saturday. She was climbing on a fence when she lost her balance and fell, severely spraining her ankle and it is feared breaking some of the bones in her leg. Just how serious the injury will prove can not be determined for a few days.

A. D. Snedicor was seriously injured Saturday about 4 o'clock in the afternoon as a result of being kicked by a cow. His right leg was broken and ankle dislocated as well as being badly bruised about the body. Mr. Snedicor is 78 years old but despite his years is getting along passably well.

Mrs. Elva T. Green had a narrow escape from serious injury Friday evening. When driving along on Forest avenue an auto struck her carriage behind bumping it against the horse she was driving. She was thrown to the ground but she clung to the seat of the carriage which broke the force of the fall. The horse was quite badly injured.

HEAVY LOSS OF LIFE AND PROPERTY COMES WHEN DAM GIVES WAY

RUIN SPREAD BY LOOSENED FLOOD

Hurls Battering Broadside of Water against Austin.

BUILDINGS WITHER BEFORE IT

Men, Women and Children Are Missing and Hundreds of Bodies Are Thought to Be Beneath Wreckage Scattered for Miles.

Austin, Pa., Oct. 2. — The pillar of water that jammed its battering ram of cordwood through the valley where the town of Austin lay Saturday afternoon swept itself a clean path for an even mile.

There it smashed a broadside against the full length of the principal street, gathering up as it went the boards that a minute before were houses, and heaved the splintered fragments against the more substantial line of brick stores.

Brick and steel gave way almost as completely as had the less solid construction. But the wave was hindered long enough to pile up to the height of a three-story building the mass of torn debris. Then the flood ripped ahead, swirling over the few small buildings that lay below until it came to railroad shops where cars and locomotives were flipped onto their sides and stripped of their wheels and roofs, and where the natural gas pipes in the engine rooms were scraped off. Then came the fire that finished the job in the yards and in the nearby shops. After that the water kept on through the valley until it had brought down all but four of the houses in Costello, the village that lies three miles below.

Estimates of the loss of life lies between 250 and 300. Enumerators of the last census have begun the task of going through the houses upon the hillsides where the homeless ones have been taken. It is only by elimination, the authorities believe, that anything like an accurate count can be made. The work of clearage has begun, but it will be a long task and even the census takers' work cannot be completed for many days. Only sixty are positively known to be dead, but scores are missing.

It is a curious fact that the list of the injured is practically negligible. The state physicians and nurses, who came supplied with bandages and medicines, have found nothing to do. They have turned their efforts to feeding and clothing the population that had every grocery store and meat market wiped away. The break in the dam that brushed off the one business street and crumpled up four churches did not injure or maim. It stamped out life or left these men and women untouched.

The manner in which the people of Austin lost their lives is typified in the case of the family of State Senator Frank E. Baldwin. His sister, Mrs. M. C. Collins, had a few seconds more warning then many. Her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. John Baldwin, were in their home on Turner street, which lay between the dam and the chief thoroughfare. Mrs. Collins thought immediately of the fact that her father was crippled and that her mother was very infirm and almost blind. She ran to their house, roused them and started along the sidewalk that led to one of the cross streets to the hill. Their way was past the Presbyterian church and as they passed this building the approaching column of water reached them. A man who stood upon one of the safe hillsides saw the church topple and fall upon the three as the daughter urged her parents along the street. There is not the slightest doubt that Mrs. Collins could have saved herself. But she died with her father and mother.

As the quiet men and women trampled hours later over the flat plain where the water had rushed thirty feet deep the question that came to many minds was, where are the children? Here and there was a boy who scrambled over the wreckage or a girl who stood silently looking on, but there was nothing like the curious lot of youngsters that the authorities expect at the place of a disaster. All these milling towns of this state are plentifully supplied with children. The only answer seemed to be that when those heaps are cleared away a great number of small bodies will be brought out. The great disaster occurred on Saturday, and of course school was not in session and the children were scattered over town.

The dam that split into eight pieces just as a row of dominoes will bulge apart was not an old structure. It was placed below an antique wooden crub, a trifle over two years ago. But there have been murmuring against the heavy bulk of water that it restrained, even in spite of its newness. The women of the town especially have worried about the dam when it might break. The men were disposed to laugh at these fears.

Last spring there was an alarm when it was thought that the brink was ready to give away. The water poured over it so freely and with such violence that men galloped on horseback down the valley crying the warning that another rider once gave in a flood in this state. At that time the people ran to overhanging hills, but there was no need for their fears. The flood did not come.

But when the alarm was over and the townspeople went out to look at the barriers it was found that the concrete had slipped down something like eighteen inches. After that notches were cut in the upper surface to lessen the pressure by permitting a larger volume of water to trickle over the edge.

But when the state officials came to examine the broken fragments it was found that one of the notches had been filled up completely with concrete and that work was in progress on the other. Four feet of new concrete was found in this gap and the forms were up for more. Work had been done upon it Saturday.

The examination of Farley Gannett, engineer for the state water supply commission, showed that one chunk of concrete, weighing perhaps a ton and a half, had been projected down stream for 100 feet. Another much longer section lay sixty feet out of the plumb line of the dam. Mr. Gannett found a man who from the hillside saw the bursting of the wall.

"John Newman, a politician of Coudersport," said the state engineer, "told me that he was driving along the hillside away from the dam. His companion turned back to look at the flood of water.

"'It seems to me that there's an awful lot of water coming over today,' said Newman.

"'That's right,' agreed his driver, and then as they looked Freeman shouted: 'By God, there it goes.'"

The big lump popped out of place and catapulted down the stream. Then like the cracking of a whip the others snapped out. In another second the great mass of wood pulp was being flicked into the air like matches. It went up like a cloud. The smoke stacks of the paper mills were hidden behind the spray and cracking logs.

The chunk that popped so far down was the first to give away. It was the top half of a section, ripped off as cleanly as if it had been sawed. The exposed surface of the base that remained in places showed that it had not been roughened. It apparently marked the end of a day's work in the construction and the only way in which the next day's section had been welded to it was by four twisted iron bars which were pressed downward today.

Mr. Gannett was not willing to say what he thought had caused the break. He will make a close inspection of the designs before he makes his report to the water supply commission.

The dam was owned by the Bayliss Pulp Paper company, which has its headquarters in Binghamton, N. Y. The vast amount of water confined above the dam was used in the processes of washing pulp after its chemical treatments before it is turned into paper.

VACANCY IN DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH FILLED BY THE APPOINTMENT OF E. R. TURNER

Ann Arbor, Oct. 2.—The vacancy at the U. of M. in the chair of English and European history caused by the retirement of Prof. Richard Hudson, has been filled by the appointment of Edward Raymond Turner, Ph.D., a graduate of Johns Hopkins university and recently of Bryn Mawr college. Professor Turner has spent the summer abroad, whither he went as representative of Bryn Mawr to the hundredth anniversary celebration of the Royal Frederick's university of Christiana. He was present at the dinner given by the King of Norway. The greater part of the summer he spent in research work relating to the growth and development of the cabinet and secretarial offices of the English government in the 18th century. Through the courtesy of the Marquis of Cholmondeley, he was permitted to examine the Walpole manuscripts at Houghton hall in Norfolk, where he was the guest of the Countess of Strafford.

ONE BUILDING STILL STANDS

All of Austin That Was on Low Ground Is Leveled.

FIVE CHURCHES SWEPT AWAY

Ruins Still Burning—Schoolhouse Is Converted into Morgue and There Are Not Coffins Enough to Go Around.

Austin, Pa., Oct. 2.—The state constabulary arrived here at 11 o'clock in the morning and they are patrolling the town and surrounding country. Fifty men have been sworn in as deputy police and are aiding in the search for bodies.

But fifty buildings remain in what was Austin and they are perched along the hillside. All five churches were destroyed and the Austin National bank is the only building that still stands in the town below.

The loss of life is estimated between 400 and 500.

Over 100 bodies have been recovered and there is a great dearth of coffins.

The school house on the hill has been converted into a morgue, and it is crammed with bodies. Bodies are said to have been seen as far as ten miles south of Austin, and a great many of them will never be recovered, as they will be swept down to the Susquehanna river. The flood has mass of bodies and bits of wreckage and not even a foundation or cellar remains. Except for the bank building the site of Austin is a levelled mas of bodies and bits of wreckage. Fires are still burning among the piles of drift and many bodies are being burned. The Renova fire department is on the ground and are gradually overcoming the flames. They brought 200 men with them on a special train. At the Buffalo and Susquehanna car shops a great pile of bodies is believed to be beneath the wreckage. The fire companies are trying to extinguish the flames here in order to recover the bodies.

Relief trains have been sent from Williamsport, Port Allegany, St. Marys, Olean, Corning, Galleton and Coudersport. Three car loads of provisions and clothing were sent from Williamsport and the citizens have raised over a thousand dollars as a relief fund. All the cities in the state are sending in contributions in Austin.

The tents sent by the state department proved a god-send. It rained all day and the injured men, women and children have been sheltered by the tents. The state department also sent a relief train with fifteen physicians and twenty nurses.

NUDE BODY IDENTIFIED

Chicago, Oct. 2. — Dr. Henry Elgin Webster, charged with the murder of his wife, Bessie Kent Webster, made a complete confession of the murder in the office of Captain Baer at the Chicago avenue police station just before being taken to the train for Polo, Ill.

Dixon, Ill., Oct. 2.—The body of the murdered woman found near Dixon, Ill., was identified as that of Mrs. Bessie Kent Webster, wife of Dr. Homer E. Webster of the Policlinic hospital, Chicago.

Soon after it was learned that the body was that of Mrs. Webster, a telegram was sent to Chicago from Polo requesting the arrest of Dr. Webster on a charge of murder. Miss Mabel Sextit, a trained nurse, also is sought as an accessory to the crime. Dr. Webster was arrested.

Miss Sextit, the nurse sought, figured as the principal witness in an unsuccessful attempt at divorce made by Webster in February. Miss Sextit is supposed to have attacked the character of the doctor's wife. Mrs. Webster disappeared from Chicago on Sept. 15, following a quarrel with her husband because of his inability to provide funds for her vacation, the doctor says.

WANT WILSON RESTRAINED

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 2.—The scalp of Secretary of Agriculture Wilson is being sought by 200,000 Michigan Prohibitionists and local optionists. Turned down by the secretary in their appeal to him to refuse to preside at the brewers' congress in Chicago next month, they have petitioned President Taft to stop him. Wilson's attitude was denounced by the Methodist conference at Flint and resolutions were sent to his chief. A telegram has also been sent to President Taft by Anti-Saloon League Superintendent G. W. Morrow, which reads as follows:

"Our constituency, 200,000 strong in Michigan, most urgently protests against Secretary Wilson serving as honorary president of the International Brewers' congress. Surely no cabinet officer should do so. We appeal to you."

AFTER ANOTHER PASTOR

REQUEST TO RELEASE REV. GRAETZ FOR BRIGHTON IS GRANTED.

The German Lutheran congregation held its annual meeting on Sunday afternoon in the church edifice. The inclement weather prevented there being as good an attendance as usual. The reports of the secretary and treasurer were received, that of the latter showing that there remained in the church treasury between forty and fifty dollars. The time of two of the trustees, John Wolter and Emil Luedke, having expired, Carl Luedke and Joseph Beach were elected to fill their places.

The request to excuse Rev. Mr. Graetz from coming to the Ypsilanti church, which the Brighton people had sent, was considered, and it was decided that under the circumstances it should be granted. However the church intends to secure another assistant in place of Mr. Graetz.

The pastor, Rev. Henry Luetjen, goes to Pemberville, Ohio, this week to attend the convention of the northern district of the joint synod of Ohio and adjoining states, which will be in session from October 4 to 10. On this account, there will be reading esrvices next Sunday at the church. While in Ohio, it is possible that Rev. Mr. Luetjen may secure someone to come to Ypsilanti as assistant pastor.

ROOF IS BURNED FROM HOUSE—BAD CHIMNEY THE CAUSE

The fire department were called to the home of Mrs. Chas. Mashatt (colored) on Upper Ellis street this afternoon at 1:15. The fire was caused by a defective chimney and started in the attic. The roof was burned from the house but the quick work on the part of the department saved the remainder of the building. The greater port of the furniture was saved.

BOMBARDMENT SHORT—ENGLAND ASKED TO ACT

Rome, Oct. 2.—The bombardment of Tripoli by the Italian fleet Saturday was short, the Turkish troops evacuating the city with the evident object of preparing for fighting in the interior.

A long special dispatch from Tripoli describes picturesquely the appearance of the city "on the eve of Italian occupation." The native population, it appears, is taking the course of events with stolid indifference, although the foreign population largely fled and most of the business section of the city is closed up in view of the danger from bombardment.

Calcutta, Oct. 2.—A cablegram was forwarded from here today in the name of the Mohammedans of India, urging Great Britain to take a hand in the Italo-Turkish situation. The message was addressed to the foreign secretary at London and a duplicate went by telegraph to the Indian home secretary at Simla.

SAYS KINGDOM IS COMING

"Thy kingdom come; thy will be done in earth as it is in heaven" was the text for the morning sermon at the Methodist church. "Here is the world of prayer in minature," said Dr. Leeson. Tennyson's "flower in the crannied wall" held the mystery of God in nature, and this brief, familiar prayer holds the mystery of God in grace. Its several sentences are like the correlated lenses of a great telescope to multiply spiritual vision. There are three ways of uttering this familiar prayer. As a petition alone. Asking that God might establish his kingdom in the earth. This is the least aspect of the prayer. Or we may use it as a pledge of submission in meakness yielding to the will of God. Or it may rise to its truest height and be not only a prayer but a program and the vow of the heroic heart to cooperate for the hastening of the kingdom of God in the earth.

"The fearful catasprophies which startle and dismay us from time to time are not so much the visitation of God's will in penalty as incidents in the program of hastening his kingdom of greater physical security and safety. God's will for us is not something to be suffered, but it is rather the very highest good for His creatures in all realms of their existence—physical, intellectual and moral. According to the report of a great helaht expert, there are a quarter of a million of people who die in this country every year from preventable causes. Our part of the program for bringing in that part of the kingdom which means health and longevity is therefore very clearly seen. Better hygienic conditions, clearer knowledge of disease and its prevention, purer social conditions—these are all part of that wide program suggested in this prayer—thy kingdom come, thy will be done.

"This coming kingdom is defined at least in suggestion in the remainder of the prayer. It has physical aspects. 'Give us this day our daily bread. Forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors,' etc. Where right shall rule and mercy temper the reign of might. And it is a kingdom of brotherhood. The first personal pronoun is not found in the proyer. 'Our Father, our bread, our debts,' etc., suggests the great social aspect of this hastening kingdom. Our lives are inseparably knit together. Every man is either a center of wholesome influence and uplift or a sontagion center of unholy forces.

"And this kingdom is surely coming. The signs of the times are propitious. God is in His heaven and man is hearing and heeding his call to be a co-laborer for this glorious consummation."

Rev. Marshall H. Pettit, of the Baptist church, has been requested to repeat his excellent sermon delivered Sunday morning. The music in the evening was unusually excellent also, consisting of two solos by Verne Pettit, a duet by Mr. Pettit and Miss Mabel Brooks and an obligato by Miss Davis of the Normal.

The newly organized choir of thirty young people made a very satisfactory first appearance at the M. E. norning service.

THE BANISHING OF MUNICIPAL COURT PLASTERS.

We trust every citizen will read and respect the following notice from the chief of Police, which is running in the columns of the Press:

Notice.

"Hereafter no person shall, himself, or by another, post, attach, place, paint or stamp any placard, show bill, or advertisement of any description whatever (except such as may be expressly authorized by law) on any street, fence, sidewalk, lamp-post, post box, bridge, building, or any other public place or object in the city, (except on billboards expressly provided and used for such purpose). It shall be the duty of the marshal, deputy marshal and special deputy marshal of such city to see to the enforcement of this section, and to make complaint against any person violating the provisions thereof.

"MILO GAGE, Chief of Police."

This action on the part of the city officials approximates what has been done in many enterprising cities throughout the country. Several have gone further under the stimulus excited by the American Civic Association and the National Municipal League and have passed ordinances seeking to regulate or abate "the billboard nuisance." These measures are intended to create and maintain civic beauty by removing the municipal court plasters. Some cities regulate the use of bill-boards by taking entire control of them and licensing their use. The city prescribes where they may be placed, of what size and what material, and realizes some revenue therefrom.

About the only excuse for a court plaster is to cover up something worse. But the presence of a court plaster usually presupposes worse, which, uncovered, would be a greater blemish. We have one or two instances in the city where this defence might be urged, perhaps the most conspicuous one being "The Ark" on the southeast corner of Pearl and Washington streets. It would be difficult to find a more ugly blemish upon the face of a municipality than this, besides being a tinder-box all ready for a blaze.

Too often bill-boards testify of untiday municipal housekeeping, just as what may be found in some dark obscured corner of some homes testify similarly of the lax housekeeping prevailing there. It is difficult to imagine any vacant lot in a municipality which would not look immeasurably more attractive if the debris and weeds were demoved therefrom and green grass, with perhaps a little inexpensive shrubbery or foliage planted thereon. The lot itself would undoubtedly sell for enough more to well repay the cost and the condition of the lot would reflect far greater credit upon the owner and the municipality which encouraged this use of the vacant property in its midst. And this permitting of the free access of the sunshine and the fresh air makes these vacant lots health-contributors, instead of disease-contributors. The old tin cans which you throw over the fence among the burdock on this vacant lot are veritable breeding-places for flies and mosquitoes, two of the most persistent enemies of the public health.

The Civic Improvement associations in other cities have done a splendid service to their cities by working up a fine sentiment of cooperation in making such places as these attractive throughout constantly widening areas. We believe that here is an additional line of helpful service which the Ypsilanti Civic Improvement association may well undertake.

And let us in this connection suggest just one 'Don't.' If you happen to live next a vacant lot, whether it be improved or unimproved, or even though it be occupied, don't, when the occupant isn't looking, or the owner isn't present, deposit your rubbish on their premises. We have seen a number of instances of late where just this thing has been done. We know of wagon-loads of such rubbish having to be carted away at the expense of the innocent owner or occupant, and solely because of the thoughtlessness, the carelessness, the selfishness, or the shiftlessness, or all, of some neighbor. That neighbor has taken from the pockets of his innocent neighbor the cost of collecting, loading and hauling away this rubbish, not by entering his bedroom in the night-time while he was asleep and removing it from his trousers' pocket, but he has removed it none the less effectually.

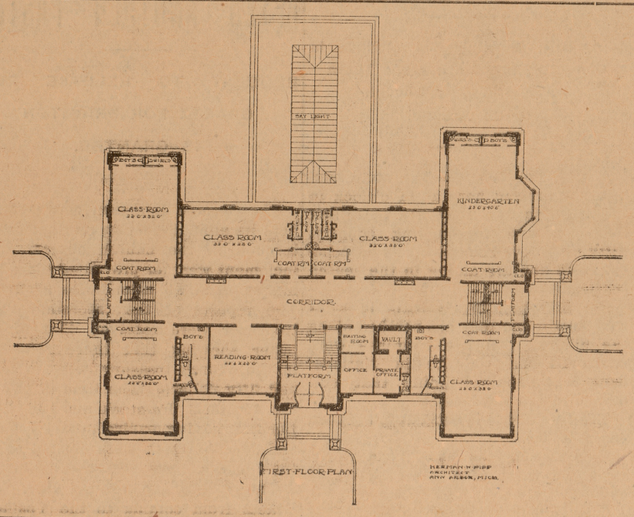
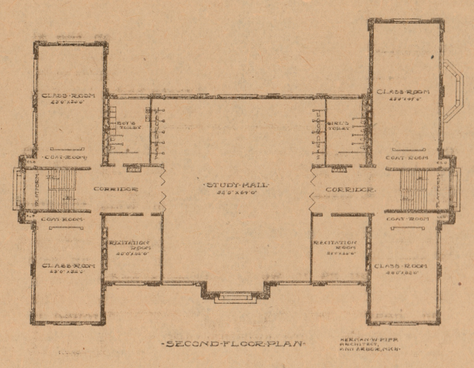
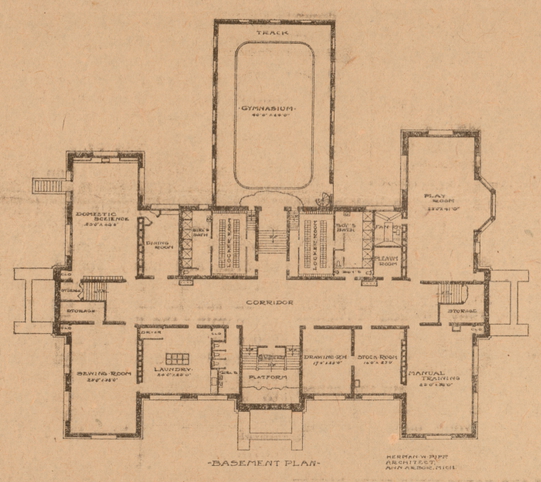
PROPOSED NEW SCHOOL AS IT WOULD LOOK AFTER COMPLETION. THE DESIGNS BELOW SHOW HOW ROOMS WOULD BE ARRANGED ON THE FIRST AND SECOND FLOOR AND IN THE BASEMENT







Detailed plans for the proposed new school building have been completed by Architect Herman W. Pipp, of Ann Arbor. We show on this page cuts of basement, second and third floor plans. These are necessarily small but large drawings are on exhibition in Davis and Kishlar's Congress St. window. Inspection of these is invited. The committee has given the planning of this building much care, and it is only after a good deal of consultation and correction that the plans, as shown here, have been approved.

The building is to face Adams St., on which is the main entrance, the long axis of the building running north and south. There are also entrances on Cross and Florence streets, as well as a rear entrance to the gymnasium. As is shown in the perspective drawing of the exterior, there will be both Adams and Cross street facades for architectural effect, as the building will occupy a prominent site.

From Adams street, the building will be entered through a large revolving door. Inside the door, two short flights of stairs lead to the first floor, where, off a corridor eighteen feet wide and running the whole length of the building, are six classrooms, office, and teachers' reading and rest-room. The office is equipped with a fire-proof storage vault. The classrooms are of standard size, 23 x 32 feet, except the kindergarten room which is larger. The lighting is left-hand, and the window space of each room is about one-fifth that of the floor. These rooms are intended for the lower grades, and a feature which will commend them to teachers and all others familiar with the toilet-room problem at school, is the separate toilets for each room. The mingling of younger and older children in the toilets is thus avoided. It will be noticed, too, that all coat-rooms are inside the schoolrooms.

The basement is reached by stairways from the main entrance and from the first floor by stairways at the ends of the corridor. The basement contains a complete domestic science and art equipment, including kitchen, diningroom, sewingroom and laundry. Those familiar with the fact that more than fifty high school girls alone are now taking sewing need not be persuaded of the necessity of this feature. In another part of the basement is the manual training and drawing department. In the remainder of the basement are boys and girls locker- and bath-rooms and a playroom, the latter to be made use of later in some wise way. Off the basement and extending back toward the present Central building is a subbasement for a gymnasium, 40-64 feet. This annex is elevated above ground only part of the first story and has overhead lighting.

The second floor is designed for the upper grades, and contemplates the organization of these grades on the departmental plan, so that promotions may take place, in part, by subjects, as is done in the high school, rather than by grades. To this end a study hall with sufficient space for 200 desks is planned, and leading from this are class and recitation rooms.

The committee is now securing estimates of the cost of the building, which they hope to keep at about $55,000, as a heating plant and improvements for the Prospect school are yet to be provided for. Plans for these are under way, and will be shown soon. It is proposed to have everything ready for a special election on the question not later than November first. Meantime, they invite the cooperation and support of citizens in the project.

Milady's Mirror

How to Grow Old Gracefully.

The real secret of happiness in life is to sow the seeds of cheerfulness early, so that the harvest when gathered may bring serene happiness in old age. Get busy and keep busy is a splendid starting point on the road to cheerfulness. Go to bed thanking the Almighty for the blessings the day has brought and smile as memory reviews some kind act done during the day to lighten another's burden. Perhaps the smile will rest there to greet a new blessing ushered in with the advent of another day.

Throw a smile and a cheery word to your doctor, dentist, minister and tradespeople. They appreciate it immensely. They have to hear the woes of humanity on all sides, and they love and serve you better for the cheer you sow as you go. If one stops to think what a really monotonous life professional people lead, hearing all the woes of selfish humanity, who think of them only when they are in trouble and want to be coddled, it must be a treat for them to meet a really cheerful soul who gives them an unconscious uplift.

Cheer up! Cheer others up! Get the habit firmly fixed upon you and watch the result. Grow old gracefully, gently and cheerfully, and you won't know that you are doing it, nor will any one else.

For Weak Ankles.

If your ankles swell you should look to your shoes, the heels especially, and the support or lack of it for the instep. Choose shoes which fit snugly over the instep and cling closely to the ankle to afford sufficient support. The width should be ample enough to move the toes, the length enough to give the large toe room so that it does not reach the tip by an inch and the vamp long if a short one cramps the foot. Heels should be of medium height. When the heel of the foot is raised to an extreme height the natural arch of the foot is exaggerated, the muscles become strained, and a sharp pain ensues from the spot where the heel of the shoe presses into the flesh.

An excellent exercise for strengthening the ankles is to raise slowly on the tips of the toes and down again. Go to the very tip of the toe, just as far as you can balance yourself. Hold the position on the toes as long as possible, then slowly lower to the floor. Stand erect with the feet placed close together on the floor, hands on hips, head erect and chest out. Wear a brace of metal or rubber to support the foot until the ankles become stronger.

Proper Care of the Eyes.

If the wind has reddened the eyelids wash them in slightly salted warm water.

Dotted veils should be tabooed. Even plain ones should not be worn over the eyes except in winter to protect the face from the cold.

When a foreign substance gets into the eye do not irritate it by trying to force it out. Keep the eye closed for a few minutes or until the object is removed by the tears which will flow.

Never rub the eyes, for this practice causes inflammation of the lids, and, no matter how beautiful the eyes are, inflamed lids will cause them to be unsightly.

Give up tea, coffee, pastry, sweets, chocolate and fancy salads and eat for breakfast only a little brown bread, a bit of fruit and drink plenty of milk. For the rest of the meals use boiled vegetables, green salads, rare done meats, if any, and a beverage confined to milk, which may be used plentifully.

Complexion and texture of the skin will be greatly improved because of the improved stomach and rested nerves. All blemishes of the skin will be removed if the bodily organs are kept in healthy condition. If the nerves are in bad condition, from whatever cause, the surface skin will proclaim the trouble.

A Good Face Wash.

A little borax in witch hazel is a good face wash after motoring and is also of value in so many ways that every woman should have borax and witch hazel on her dressing table. A little bicarbonate of soda and orris root in the bath will be found pleasant.

Sage For the Hair.

Sage tea is a hair tonic as well as a darkener. Make a strong brew of dried leaves, strain the liquid carefully through muslin, and to each pint add two teaspoonfuls of alcohol. This should be rubbed on the hair every night before retiring.

Developing the Arms.

Exercise will develop the arms. Practice with chest weights and dumbbells. Housework is a wonderful arm developer. If you do not perform the actual duties go through imaginary movements, washing, sweeping, window cleaning, etc.

A Fleshy Nose.

For a fleshy nose have a pomade made of an ounce and a half each of vaseline and lanoline; add one gram iodide potassium and twenty drops tincture of benzoin. Rub the nose well with this pomade several times a day.

Good Liver Remedy Free

When you suffer from any form of indigestion it is always well to take something for the liver, as usually the trouble lies there. If you are bilious, have a bloaty feeling after eating, if you belch, if your skin is yellowish you may be sure it is liver trouble.

What you need is something to stir up the liver, to arouse the gastric juices so that they will aid in the digestion of your food. A very good remedy for this, and one highly recommended by those who have used it, is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which you can obtain of any druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a bottle. But if you have any doubt about its merits, and would prefer to try it first, send your address to Dr. Caldwell and he will promptly send you a free sample bottle.

Thousands of people first learned of this remarkable cure for stomach, liver and bowel troubles through a free sample. Mrs. Frank Lilly of Plainview, Ill., sent for one and it cured her and she is open in saying that she will never take pills or strong cathartics again, as Syrup Pepsin acts so mildly. Mr. W. L. Bryant, the Postmaster at Sardis, Tenn., says he will never be without it again. No sick person can afford to ignore a remedy so highly endorsed as this. It is good for all the family from infancy to old age, because it is mild, free from griping and yet promptly effective. Furthermore, results are absolutely guaranteed or money will be refunded.

Dr. Caldwell does not feel that the purchase of his remedy ends his obligation. He has specialized in stomach, liver and bowel diseases for over forty years and will be pleased to give the reader any advice on the subject free of charge. All are welcome to write him. Whether for the medical advice or the free sample address him Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 541 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

Outlook For the Football Season at Big Colleges

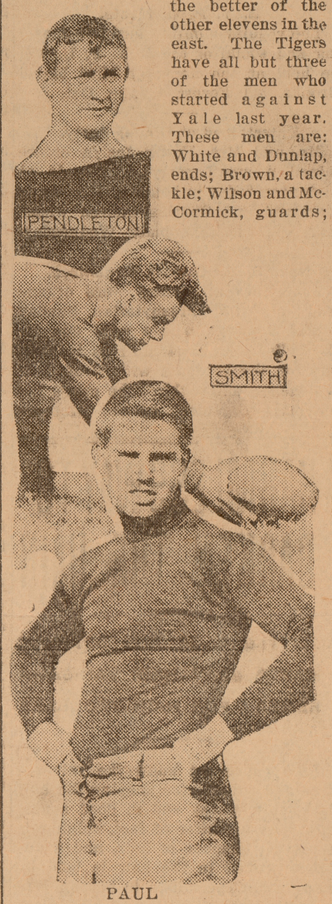
By TOMMY CLARK.

THE whir of the pigskin will hold lovers of the checkerboard game in its grasp from now on until the latter part of November. The candidates for the different teams have been hard at work for the past few weeks, and as the weeding stage has been reached a fairly good line on different elevens can be given.

The fact that no radical changes have been made in the rules of the game has been of great assistance to the coaches in whipping their teams into something like first class condition early in the season. Heretofore when important changes were made in the rules, as they have been nearly every year until the present since the great upheaval in 1906, coaches have had to devote a great portion of their time to explaining the changes to their charges.

How the Elevens Size Up.

As far as veterans are concerned Princeton and Harvard have slightly the better of the other elevens in the east. The Tigers have all but three of the men who started against Yale last year. These men are: White and Dunlap, ends; Brown, a tackle; Wilson and McCormick, guards;



Photos by American Press Association.

THREE VETERANS OF LAST SEASON WHO EXPECT TO SHINE IN EASTERN GAMES.

Bluenthal, center; Pendleton, a halfback, and Captain Hart, fullback. There are also a number of excellent substitutes trying for the team, so that optimism reigns supreme in Tigertown.

Sometimes a team is handicapped by too many veterans, because this condition of things tends to make a team overconfident and keeps down the list of new candidates. This may or may not prove to be the case at Princeton.

Prospects at Yale are rosy enough, although the Elis have lost more men than Princeton. Captain Howe and Fullback Kistler are the only veterans in the back field, Daly and Field having graduated, the latter now acting as head coach. In the line Kilpatrick is gone at one end and Morris is missing at center. Scully and Paul are back at tackle, and Childs should make a capable guard.

Yale's greatest good fortune is the possession of Howe as quarterback. This is his third year on the Yale team. He held down the position on Captain Coy's well nigh perfect eleven in 1909, and last year he was about all that stood between the team and utter rout.

Harvard has lost but few players, the principal losses being McKay, the All American tackle; Withington, his mate on the other side of the line; O'Flaherty, quarterback, and Minot, fullback. With the exception of McKay these positions will be easily filled. Last year Harvard had a number of high class backs—enough, in fact, for two or three back fields. Potter is likely to be first choice for quarterback, with Campbell and Wendell completing the quartet.

In some ways the Red and Blue is more fortunate than appears from the foregoing. This is due to the fact that there is some unusually good material from the 1910 freshmen eleven, which was the champion first team of the east.

Pennsylvania's real problem will be, as heretofore, the development of a heavy line. This will be the more difficult because, as a rule, the Quakers are not blessed with an abundance of heavy men.

Cornell has brighter prospects than for a number of years on account of the large number of men from last year's eleven who are eligible this fall and the efficiency of the coaching system, which is regarded as the best in years. Last fall Cornell developed a lot of green men into a fairly good football team. This year the coaches hope to reap their reward.

The fact that the annual contest between the elevens of the Naval and Military academies will this year break the tie occasioned by the seven victories of each service team gives special interest to the football season at Annapolis and West Point. Last year the Navy won, a field goal being the only score of the game. This year neither team loses heavily by graduation, and one of the stiffest games in the series is expected.

Western Football Outlook.

In the west a splendid fight for the conference eight title is anticipated. Although Michigan is out of the fold, there is one game which will furnish a line on the comparative strength of Michigan and other members of the conference. Nebraska will meet both Minnesota and Michigan, and the results of these contests should go a long way in determining the relative strength of the Wolverenes and Gophers.

Minnesota, Illinois, Indiana and Michigan will put the most formidable elevens on the fields. Wisconsin is again an unknown quantity, as is Chicago and Northwestern. Iowa rejoices in the return of practically all of its veterans of last year, and the Hawkeyes may cut considerable figure.

Purdue, with a disastrous season last year, is hopeful, and Coach Horr has the nucleus of a fast team.

Chicago and Northwestern have suffered most by desertions, at least at this stage, the gloom at the two institutions being thick enough to cut with an ax. Coach Stagg has lost practically all of his last year's stars, and Coach Hammett of the purple squad is in the same boat.

Coach Sheldon of Indiana will have a good team, according to reports. Minnesota, according to the advance dope, should have a better team than last year, when the Gophers disputed with Michigan the championship of the west. Enough of the old men are back to give the machine the proper impetus at the start, and new men are available to keep it going to the finish without a hitch.

Michigan will not suffer if the dope is read right. Coach Yost has plenty of old and new material to turn out a winning combination. Among the newcomers especially there are several stars who are likely to be heard from.

At the University of Wisconsin two former gridiron stars are in charge. John Richard and Earl Driver, two of the best players whom the Badger institution ever turned out, will try to put the Cardinals back on their feet.

Illinois, which claimed the championship of the west last year, will be back with as strong if not a stronger team. That is not according to the coaches, but the students can see nothing but a victory over Minnesota, which is the principal aim in life at the university for the time being.

The strong teams are not confined to the "big eight" or to Michigan. There are plenty of others on the border land of greatness. Notre Dame and Marquette elevens will probably show the others the way to the goal posts. Lake Forest and De Paul teams also are promising, while Nebraska must be considered on par with some of the "big eight" elevens.

"What is the greatest evil to be remedied in the modern church?" is a question which a Topeka minister asked a lot of business men. One replied: "Make the women take off their hats and fix the seats so that men can sleep in greater comfort."—Kansas City Journal.

Rare Diseased Plant.

An exceedingly rare but occasionally found plant is the Cattleya libiata alba. It is a diseased plant, whose exquisite bloom is snow white. Properly packed, orchids will stand from forty to fifty days' confinement and remain in a healthy condition.

Diplomatic.

"Jinx lied to me yesterday in order to get off to go to the ball game. He said his wife's mother was dead." "I think you are mistaken. I heard what he said." "Then what was it." "He said he would like to attend his mother-in-law's funeral." — Houston Post.

Woman's Capability.

It is said that a woman does not possess the judicial mind. Maybe not, but she can always be trusted to make an equitable distribution of the jam among half a dozen children.

The Optimist's Corner

Daily Helps to Health and Happiness

By GEORGE F. BUTLER, A. M., M. D.

"Sans eyes, sans teeth, sans everything."

In the "lean and slippered pantaloon" stage of life's journey, somewhat similar conditions of the mouth and teeth obtain to that existing in the infant. They are subject to thrush and ulcers of the mouth similar to the child. With many of the lower animals the loss of teeth means the extreme limits of life from the cessation of the processes of mastication and digestion. It is otherwise with the human race; loss of teeth long before the cessation of life is the rule rather than the exception. It is too much to hope that when preventive measures throughout the whole life have become more recognized and more universal than has hitherto been the case, that future generations may attain "a green old age," and yet possess a fairly good set of teeth?

In sickness, the necessity of a healthy mouth is pressing and urgent, and if neglected it may be said that one of the most important parts of that general hygiene so necessary for restoring strength and health remains incomplete, and the invalid remains seriously handicapped in his fight against disease and suffering.

A HARMLESS WAY TO DARKEN THE HAIR

Who does not know the value of sage and sulphur for keeping the hair dark, soft, glossy and in good condition? As a matter of fact, sulphur is a natural element of hair, and a deficiency of it in the hair is held by many scalp specialists to be connected with loss of color and vitality of the hair. Unquestionably, there is no better remedy for hair and scalp troubles, especially premature grayness, than sage and sulphur, if properly prepared. The Wyeth Chemical Company of New York put up an ideal remedy of this kind, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, and authorize druggists to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

If you have dandruff, or if your hair is thin or turning gray, get a bottle of this remedy from your druggist today, and see what it will do for you.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. Special agent, Weinmann-Matthews Co., 118 Congress street.

CLOGGED BY VEGETABLES

Battle Creek, Mich., Oct. 2.—Seldom is a street so clogged with fresh vegetables as to tie up traffic, but this happened here. Louis Palmer, an extensive garden-truck farmer, was driving into the city with a big load of produce, when his horse ran away on Washington avenue, the wagon striking a telephone pole after rolling two blocks down a steep grade. The wagon was torn so completely apart that no two pieces were found together, and so thick was the flood of vegetables that after Palmer and his daughter, Ethel, had been dug out, the police had to work half an hour to clear the street for traffic.

NEW THRESHING MERGER

Battle Creek Plants Likely to Be In Holding Syndicate.

Battle Creek, Mich., Oct. 2.—Two of Battle Creek's largest industries, the Advance Thrasher company and the Nichols & Shepard Thrasher company, will undoubtedly enter into a merger of thrashing machine concerns, controlled by a building syndicate organized in New York. Brainard T. Skinner, secretary treasurer of the Advance company, admits the combination is likely, but W. R. Wooden, secretary of the Nichols & Shepard company, is non-committal.

It is planned to organize the trust entirely within the law as defined by recent supreme court decisions, the local plants being only part of the proposed combine. The J. I. Case Thrashing company, Racine, Wis., is another big concern included in the proposed merger.

Jackson, Mich., Oct. 2.—A jury in the circuit court here awarded Byron S. The jury was out nine hours.
